Tripoli

Born of a Phoenician port and the Roman city of Oea, Tripoli is a living reminder of the Mediterranean's greatest civilisations. A wealth of classical sites lie at nearby Sabratha and Leptis Magna, while rare artefacts are displayed in the city's impressive Jamahiriya Museum. Tripoli is also the portal to Libya. Its sights and sounds speak of a rich North African culture and heritage; of caravan trade with the East, the desolate beauty of the Sahara and the endurance of desert peoples. Known as the 'White Bride of the Mediterranean', Tripoli has more than a place in history. Today, with its sense of purpose and visible growth, Tripoli is a statement of a new age in the life of Libya.
