We are proud to offer you a unique Maltese wine that has very low sulphide content and contains no fining agents. These are the two main properties that give these wines the honour of being classified as vegan friendly. Made by Mar Casar Winery, they are the only biodynamic natural wines produced in Malta, furthermore they are one of only seven worldwide employing the Qvevri methode.

The Methode Qvevri makes use of Terracotta conical vases produced by Georges Kopadzde in Shroa, a region of Imereti in Eastern Georgia (Caucasus). The temperature controlled Qvevris at Mar Casar allows the removal of unwanted particles in both the amber and the reds, this creates a shining reflective clear wine. One of the fascinating facts is that the clay used contains a huge amount of gold and silver, this is an integral part of the ionic bonding process. The natural fermentation is achieved by leaving the skin and pips in contact with the juice.

Mar Casar also forms part of 'Merill', a local rural networking company that brings together several farmers, breeders and artisanal producers. Thanks to this community, tourists and locals alike have an opportunity to experience these beautiful areas and traditional trades where one can consume genuine local produce and products.
