

ASSISTANT RESTAURANT MANAGER

In February 2018, Corinthia Hotel London announced an exciting partnership with Tom Kerridge, one of the UK's most renowned Michelin starred chefs, to launch a new dining concept in the hotel, his first in the capital.

The new restaurant will be a relaxed British brasserie-style all-day dining room, uniting Tom's consummate culinary talent and Corinthia's trademark luxury. Located on the ground floor of the hotel (in the space formerly occupied by Massimo Restaurant & Bar), the restaurant will incorporate its own bar, private dining room and rotisserie, with an updated interior designed from David Collins Studio.

Together we strive to be industry leaders, not only in knowledge of food and drink and their execution, but also in our family ethos and the belief that team happiness is the key to success.

The kitchen will select the best British produce to create big, bold and flavoursome food that is the heartbeat of Tom's kitchens. The food has its foundation in classic French cuisine, driven forward with the robust understanding that flavour comes first.

Due to open in September 2018, we are now beginning our search for exceptional hospitality professionals who have a genuine passion for food, drink and impeccable service.
